

Human Rights Team Members needed in Colombian Peace Community

Want to work for Peace in Times of War?

Apply by:
May 15, 2013

Training:
July 2013
Nyack, New York

The Colombia Peace Presence is an accompaniment project of the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FOR) that started in 2002 in the Peace Community of San José de Apartadó, one of several rural communities in Colombia that has taken an extraordinary stand against war by refusing to support any armed group.

The program has also an office in Bogotá to support this accompaniment and to highlight other Colombian grassroots peace initiatives and youth groups in order to show positive alternatives that are being built all over the country by people affected by the armed conflict and engaged in non-violent resistance.

The current Colombia Peace Presence team has five members who serve for at least twelve months. The San José de Apartadó team shares the lives of peasant farmers striving for a life in peace and dignity, while Bogotá team members visit and report about Colombian non-violent grassroots efforts.

FOR seeks committed and skilled volunteers, with sound judgment and proficient in Spanish. The training is free but applicants are required to pay their way to Nyack, NY. Training participants must complete an application for service and qualified applicants will be invited to the training.
